Did You Know?

That one of UHL's best accounts was the Harper J. Ransburg Company of Indianapolis. UHL Pottery Co. furnished them with household items and flower pots that were glazed inside but not outside. They then decorated the outside with paint and different floral designs. UHL shipped approximately 1 to 2 truckloads per week. Ransburg Company eventually sold out to Hamilton-Cosco Co.

They also made thousands of liners for picnic jugs for the Royal manufacturing Company of Bowling Green, Ohio. These were also glazed white inside and outside of the neck. Royal put a metal covering around them with insulation between the two to keep food or drinks hot or cold.

A complete line of fancy and miniature jugs were made for the Meier Wine Cellars of Silverton, Ohio. They were used for packaging their various wine and cordials. In 1938 UHL received a certificate of award from Modern Packaging for the jugs furnished to Meier's.

During prohibition UHL shipped by rail car a SPECIAL 5 Gal. Jug to a dealer in Omaha, Nebraska. The dealer in turn sold these SPECIAL jugs to "Bootlegger". The SPECIAL part of the jug was that it was one-quart short of being 5 gal.

A line of miniature jugs and novelties was made for a perfume and cologne company in Kansas City named Botay. They bottled some of their products in the jugs, which were hand decorated. UHL also made them a line of piggy banks which were decorated and sold.

UHL was also able to sell all their broken ware to the Northwestern Terra Cotta Company who ground them up and used them in their terra cotta building materials. The broken ware which had not been glazed or burned was accumulated and sold to the American Art Clay Company in Indianapolis who made modeling clay for schools.

Of course they accumulated quite a few seconds which were chipped or off color. These were sold to peddlers who in turn traded them for eggs, chickens, fruit or vegetables. As we approach our 19th annual convention we have put together a list of local antique dealers in the Jasper-Huntingburg area.

We have also included directions to the Jasper Holiday Inn. We put a variety of ways to get there so choose the one best for you.

Greeting to all,

Hope this letter finds everyone in good health and that you are enjoying a bright new year. The weather has been a little bit unwilling to go along with us at times. We had to postpone our January meeting for a week because of the ice but all turned out fine.

There has been a great deal of planning and preparation going into our up coming June Convention. We have had the finale ok on the commemorative. I truly believe that everyone will be well pleased, because we are using old UHL clay.

There was a good auction held January 10 in Jasper. There were some really good pieces on sale and turned out to be a fun place to go early in the year.

It is always good to see members out looking for that special piece.

There should be some really good pictures for your review in this newsletter. Frank and Amy have really done a great job and let's not forget Barbara Barnes who is helping her daughter move and still has handled her job well.

We need to encourage all board members because it can be at times very stressful.

Again we will call upon our members to help out, we will be needing a new board member and Barbara Barnes' position as secretary/treasure will expire in June.

Hope to see you all at our convention June 25-26, until then happy UHLING!

Jerry and Patty Schurz

One Summer Day . . .

While I have a tendency to be excessively verbal in writing and conversation, there are times when brevity is just not possible. That said, I need to share with members one of those experiences that simply leave one aghast.

Recently, I was visiting my uncle and his wife at their home in Dale. The occasion was a follow-up on a family reunion this summer and returning some borrowed photos. After a visit of some length, I needed to move along to the next item on my agenda for the day. As I was leaving at the rear door of the house, my keen eye spotted an item that at first astonished me. I said "Do you know what this is?" He replied, "I think it is supposed to hold a live plant or some sort". He continued, "I used it to hold small objects such as nails when coming in from outside". It contained some nails, buttons and the like.

My response was, "This is a piece of Uhl Pottery, and is worth some money". My aunt said, "We found it by the dumpster down the county road some years ago". Noticing a very small chip on the nose, I made them an offer they could not refuse. THEY DID!!!

"If you want it, you can have it, but I don't want anything for it". Now feeling uneasy, I didn't know what to do. It was obvious that it was not a matter of not offering, uncle just did not want anything for it. I thought "maybe if I offer less, he will accept some money", I reduced my offer three times, until he said "You can have it, but if you pay for it, then you can't have it", what a predicament!!"

Then, after pondering for what seemed like 5 minutes, but was more like 5 seconds, I reluctantly put the white Scottie dog planter in a bag and bid adieu. Well, what would you have done? I must do some photo reproduction and enlarging for my aunt and uncle.
