OCTOBER 1991

AUTUMN GREETINGS,

It's been a long, dry spell in my UCS mailbox. Where are all of you?? More likely than not, you are extremely busy and just haven't taken time to sit down and share your "Uhl-ing" with the rest of us. I sure would like to hear from you soon.

I'm excited to share with you the feature story this month from an interview with Dick & Ginny Rhodehamel of Tuscon, AZ. And also, the article from Lloyd Martin sharing his amazing finds of the summer.

Al & I did go to Oregon over Labor Day weekend. We have purchased a small piece of virgin forest land to build our log cabin. It is "planned to be" our last home this side of heaven. We have put our current residence on the market just this week; it's anybody's guess how long it will be before we have a buyer but I'll sure let you know when there is going to be an address change for us and the newsletter. We will not be moving to Oregon until Al retires but will have to make a temporary move in the event we sell our house in the interim. But for today, nothing has changed, so mail your items for the next newsletter to this address by November 25.

You snowbirds, let me know when you change addresses so you will receive your newsletter in a timely manner. Thanks to those who have already taken care of this.

It is not unusual for me to receive inquiries from people with the last name of Uhl; however, recently I received an inquiry for membership from a lady who changed from an Uhl to a Maynard (just as I have). It would be interesting to know if I am related to her through either family.

During our trip in Oregon, we stopped in a little town by the name of Jacksonville. It is located near Medford. I purchased a perfect advertising jug with a perfect price. No sales tax in Oregon, either. The jug is from the Glenmore Distillery in Owensboro, Kentucky. It is the Uhl white; brown top, with blue lettering and artwork. On one side of the jug, there is a picture of Col. Glenmore while on the other, the name of the company being advertised. It stands seven inches tall. I am told the brewery is still in business. Oh, yes, the price. $12.50.

Happy hunting,

Sue Maynard

A late note: It's press time, October 28. Just want you to know that our first snowfall in Southern California for this season fell Saturday. Mt. Baldy (8,000 ft.) is lovely. Down here it has cooled off to the 60s and 70s. Just two weeks ago we were in a heat wave of well over a 100* for days!!

WE HEAR FROM OUR MEMBERS.....

Terry Walker - Calhoun, KY

Asks for no more ash tray commemoratives. His vote is with jugs.

Sarah Stark - Lenexa, KS

Brand new members, Sarah and Jim plan a trip this month through Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky. They hope to find some UHL while enjoying the autumn colors. They especially would like to locate a blue wren house. If you have one for sale, give them a call at 913-894-9020.

Linda Uhl Arnett - Estacada, OR

Linda says she likes the newsletters and looks forward to communicating with other collectors. She and her family are new members and new UHL collectors. They have been able to find two crock jars and a tan mug.

SOME SUMMER FUN for Lloyd Martin included purchasing the items you see pictured here. Top; mini doubled handled jug & pink mini pitcher both advertising "Great Smoky Mountains National Park", and a blue pig bank saying "Cents for Defense" on the top w/ "V" for Victory (WWII); on the bottom "Botay, K.C.Mo."

Below; handturned blue set in mint condition, and a Dillsboro Pitcher. More on this next month.
